GENOA CONFERENCE ENDS; BIG SUCCESS, SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

Hague Proposals, Truce and Economic Report Adopted
by Plenary Session.

RUSSIANS INTRACTABLE

Soviet Delegates Protest All
Three Projects and Cause Clashes.

GENOA, May 19 (Associated Press).—The Genoa Economic Conference, one of the greatest political gatherings in Europe's history, which brought here the representatives of thirty-four nations, adjourned at 1.15 o'clock this afternoon after six weeks of momentous deliberations, with the understanding that its labors will be begun anew at the Hague on June 15. The conference adopted the report of the economic commission, which contains constructive recommendations for the economic reorganization of Europe, adopted the arrangements for the conference at The Hague and proclaimed Prime Minister Lloyd George's famous non-aggression pact which, though provisional in its nature, it is hoped to follow with a permanent European peace pact.

Premier Facta of Italy, as President of the conference, solemnly closed its sessions by bidding farewell to all the delegations and thanking them for their valuable work. The Dutch Minister, on behalf of Holland, voiced the assurance that everything possible would be done by the Netherlands to facilitate the work of the forthcoming conference.

The keynote of all the remarks at the final session was one of friendship and earnest desire to help Russia, but Premier Lloyd George pointed out to the Russian Soviet representatives the unfortunate effect of the Russian memorandum had had on the world and told them that if they wished for success at The Hague, they had better abandon their eloquent presentation of the doctrine of repudiation of debts.

"Such a course is unwise when one wants to borrow money," the British Premier remarked.

M. Tchitcherine's last word at the conference was that the real cause of the failure to obtain a settlement of the Russian question was that the footing of equality between Russia and the other powers had not been maintained.

The Russian delegation is remaining at Rapallo for a few days longer to continue negotiations on the Italo-Russian Commercial Treaty, which may be signed here before their departure, since the treaty is to become effective June 28, the same day that the commissions of experts are to meet at The Hague.

During the entire conference the Italian and Jugo-Slavian delegations have pursued negotiations for the solution of the Fiume question, which is now practically reached. Italy has declared herself ready to fully execute the Treaty of Rapallo, declaring Fiume an independent state, and Jugo-Slavia has consented to conclude a commercial treaty with Italy.

Prime Minister Lloyd George of Great Britain, in his valedictory speech to-day, said the conference had gathered "fine crops," namely the

Slayer of Bronx Policeman Indicted, Arraigned 22 Hours After the Crime Is Committed

New Record for Speed Is Established—Trabiano's Trial Set for Wednesday.

Michael Trabiano was indicted this morning at 11.20 o'clock for the murder of Patrolman Douglas W. Hay, who was slain in the Bronx yesterday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. Twenty-two hours after the commission of his crime Trabiano was arraigned before Justice Cohnlan for pleading, establishing a new record for speed in a murder trial in Bronx County. Counsel was assigned to him and his trial was set for next Wednesday.

Trabiano, a fish peddler, had thrown fish heads in the gutter at 173d Street and Third Avenue. The policeman attached to the Bathgate Avenue Station gave him a summons. A fellow countryman explained the meaning of the summons to Trabiano, who speaks little English. The policeman walked away and the Italian shot him in the back. Dozens saw the killing. A thousand watched the capture of the man after a duel between him and other policemen in which one of them was shot in the hand.

District Attorney Glennon announced that he would see that the swiftest justice was handed out to the murderer. This morning, in response to the special call sent out by John J. Fox, foreman of the Bronx County Grand Jury, that body met. The jury heard fifteen witnesses and brought in the indictment.

Trabiano was taken into the police court, his cage adjourned and word sent the police to bring him into the Supreme Court. Charles B. McLaughlin, a former Assistant District Attorney, was assigned to his defense.

Business men in the neighborhood where the policeman was killed collected $100 last night in small amounts and sent it to the widow to-day through Capt. Mahoney of the Bathgate Avenue Station. It is believed that this movement is but the beginning and that the contribution will be largely increased.

Hay will be buried Sunday in Mount

PINCHOT ANALYZES HIS VICTORY OVER THE "OLD GUARD"

Overthrow of Machine Due to Women, Progressives, Discontent With State Affairs.

MILFORD, Pa., May 19.—Results of the Pennsylvania primary indicate there is to be a "people's awakening" and better government will follow. Gifford Pinchot, Progressive Republican, chosen candidate for the Keystone State's gubernatorial campaign, declared at his home here to-day.

Pinchot sees in his victory over the powerful State organization once bled by Cameron, Quay and Penrose, unmistakable signs of the approaching "awakening," at least in Pennsylvania.

Back home in Pike County, among his neighbors, who welcomed him like a conqueror, Pinchot to-day was completely surrounded by fishing tackle. He had just emerged victorious from one of the most spectacular political battles of years, in which he accomplished what a few months ago even he himself considered impossible—the defeat of the organization. He knew he was again a national figure, as in the old Rooseveltian days and during the famous Ballinger-Pinchot conservation fight. Politicians besieged him, clamored for his attentions, tried to force themselves on him.

"I said I was going fishing, and fishing I am going," Pinchot replied to all of them, and promptly executed his intentions. But on the way here, with a few friends around him and with his long legs stretched out

FOUR MEN DRAGGED FROM BEDS, KILLED, IN IRISH VILLAGE

Half the Town Burned by Raiders—Slain Men
Catholics.

TWO SLAIN IN BELFAST

Terrorists Begin Work Early and Set Fire to Many Buildings.

BELFAST, May 19 (Associated Press).—Four men, all of them Catholics, were dragged from their beds at Desertmartin, County Derry, early to-day, and murdered. Half of the village was burned.

The terrorists began their work again early this morning, two hours before the expiration of the curfew period. Incendiary flames were started in different parts of the city, and before 9 o'clock six buildings were on fire, including the offices of a distillery.

Soon after midnight a number of armed men attacked the barracks of special constabulary in Dock Street and a fierce conflict ensued in which several of the attackers were injured. It is reported that three motor cars were used to remove the wounded. None of the constables was injured.

In one case the incendiaries entered a moving picture theatre, held up the charwoman and sprinkled the place with gasoline. The caretaker, on entering, was struck on the head by the butt of a revolver, but managed to escape and give the alarm. The total damage, it is estimated, will reach many thousands of pounds.

In the unanimous opinion of the Appellate Court there is a total lack of competent evidence that the court in China, which granted a judgment against Semenoff, had jurisdiction over the defendant or rendered a judgment against the defendant under circumstances entitling it to be enforced here.

Armed men entered a Belfast Co-operative this afternoon and shot two of the workmen. One of the victims was killed and the other is dying of his injuries.

MAURETANIA SETS NEW SPEED RECORD

Cunarder Radios of Fast
Time for Two Days.

The offices of the Cunard Line to-day received a wireless message from Capt. A. H. Rostrom of the S.S. Mauretania, which sailed from New York Tuesday noon for Southampton, that the steamship at noon yesterday had covered 1,127 nautical miles since its departure. The Mauretania, according to the wireless message, made 577 miles from Wednesday noon to Thursday noon, and so far has averaged a speed of 24.81 knots an hour.

The steamship line officials estimate that if the Mauretania can keep up the speed of its first two days, it will lower the trans-Atlantic steamship record, which is slightly more than five days.

COMPENSATION LAW
COVERS HOLD-UPS

Jersey Employer Must Pay
Award if Worker Is Shot Performing Duty.

Employees disabled by hold-up men, while protecting their employer's money, may recover compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Law, according to an award by United States Commissioner Boyd in New Jersey. He awarded $425 to James Morell of Hazlet, who was attacked while putting the automobile of his employer, the Hazlet Trading Company, into a garage.

Morell had made a delivery on his way home, and was carrying money belonging to the company. He was shot through the left breast.

64 Are Rescued Through Surf From Eagle Boat Aground in Fog Off Amagansett Beach

High Wind Makes Position
Perilous—Hope to Save Her.

ARMY TRANSPORT LOST

Goes Ashore at Orient Point and Sinks; Crew Taken Off.

Eagle Boat No. 17 of the Atlantic Fleet Submarine Flotilla, bound from Hampton Roads to New London, lost its bearings in the fog shortly after midnight and went aground early this morning between Amagansett and Easthampton.

Aid for the helpless vessel has been sent from the Navy Yard. Only a skeleton crew was aboard her. Members of the Coast Guard Station at Easthampton have erected their breeches buoy apparatus to get off baggage and supplies, and are being aided by members of the Eagle boat crew who got to the beach on life rafts.

The No. 17's officers discovered at 12.30 o'clock that they had lost their bearings. Word came back scraping bottom. Commander T. F. Withers made efforts to get into deeper water, but in every direction the boat moved it struck bottom. At 3 o'clock it stuck fast. Rockets were sent up as a signal for help.

The lookout in the Coast Guard Station saw the first signal at 3.10 o'clock. He sounded the alarm and the Coast Guard crew put off to the rescue. The sea was rough, the fog still heavy and waves were breaking over the beach.

Three men from the No. 17, the first to attempt to leave, went ashore in a raft to ascertain where the boat was aground and to notify the Navy Department.

Messages for help were sent through the naval wireless station at Annapolis. Word came back almost immediately that the Coast Guard cutter Seneca and the naval tug Cayuga had gone to No. 17's assistance. They had not arrived at 9 o'clock, but the destroyer Flusser, which happened to be in the vicinity, had to off-shore to give aid in case of an emergency. The tide then was running out. The No. 17 was then in only four feet of water and the crew aboard her at that time could have waded ashore if necessary.

On board were sixty-one men and three officers. Twenty-one of them were members of submarine crews. Orders were given at once for a portion of the men to go ashore. They used life rafts which tossed in the heavy sea, throwing several men into the water; but by 7 o'clock twenty-five had gained shore.

Others followed, all reaching the beach wet to the skin, and left only a handful of men aboard the vessel. The sailors reported the No. 17 had not yet begun to leak, but that the propeller shafts had been bent when the vessel scraped bottom.

Then, shortly before noon, the wind shifted to the southwest, blowing a gale and the No. 17 sprang a leak. No attempt probably will be made to pull the boat off while the sea is running heavily. The vessel is lying broadside to the beach with her bow pointed east.

The water is too shallow to permit even a tug to approach, but Capt. Withers hopes that she can be floated at high tide.

U. S. TRANSPORT ASHORE IN FOG OFF ORIENT POINT

NEW LONDON, Conn., May 19.—The Government transport John Wilkins went ashore near Orient Point, L. I., during the thick fog Thursday and now lies under thirteen feet of water. She was off her way here to join the fleet used for freight and passenger service between this city and the coast defenses on Fisher's, Plum and Guil Islands.

The crew of fifteen was put ashore near Greenport with the assistance of the Coast Guard Station No. 25. They arrived here this morning.

JUDGE WOULD MAKE SOME ROBBERIES CAPITAL OFFENSE

McIntyre Makes This Comment Sentencing 24 Men to 200 Years.

Twenty-four prisoners were sentenced to-day by Judge McIntyre, Rosalsky, Crain and Mancuso, in General Sessions, to an aggregate of 200 years in Sing Sing, for felonies.

"Jesse James was a piker compared to some of the men operating in this town," declared Judge McIntyre as he sentenced from nine to twenty years Thomas Lowry, nineteen, of No. 1708 Park Avenue, convicted of holding up Herman Jacobs in a restaurant at No. 56 East 114th Street. "Jesse James took his medicine," continued Judge McIntyre. "You people send friends to court to beg for clemency for you. Your friends must think the courts are lenient to be lenient with you. The Legislature might do well to make robbery in a first degree a capital offense. Years ago 113 crimes were punishable by death. We need something like that to-day. If I had my way I'd send every highway robber to the electric chair, or, at least, to prison for fifty years."

Judge Rosalsky sentenced Patrick Dealy, twenty-seven, and Frank Devlin, thirty-one, to Sing Sing for twenty years each for holding up a restaurant at No. 209 Lexington Avenue. He gave Herbert Joseph, twenty, a Negro, ten years for holding up Detective Hauptmann March 8; Charles Feary, eighteen, eight to sixteen years for holding up Samuel Kammernd, a Jeweller, and eleven others an aggregate of 103 years.

Judge Crain, who sentenced four men for an aggregate of thirty-nine years and six months, gave Henry Snodgrass, twenty-eight, a Negro, fourteen years for holding up Joseph Connell of No. 24 Vermily Avenue twice on the same day.

Judge Mancuso sentenced Frank Salarra, thirty-five, to from seven to fifteen years for manslaughter in connection with the stabbing of Frank Bruno in a Mulberry Park card game.

STORM WARNING TELLS OF HIGH WINDS COMING

The following storm warning was received by the local Weather Bureau to-day from Washington:

"Southwest storm warning displayed 10.30 A. M., Delaware Breakwater to Block Island, R. I. Storm of marked intensity, central over Southern Lake Huron and moving north, north eastward will be attended by strong south and southwest winds to-day and to-night."

1,000 MILE RADIUS IN TRANSMITTING ELECTRICITY SEEN

Time Ripe for Great Programme of Super-Power Development, Hoover Says.

WASHINGTON, May 19.—Electrical transmission of power will be developed to a thousand-mile radius, Secretary Hoover declared to-day in an address made from Washington over a long distance loud-speaking telephone to a convention of the National Electric Light Association, meeting in Atlantic City.

"The time is ripe," he said, "for a great national programme of super-power development. The stretch of economic transmission distance has brought power development from the mouth of our mines and upon our streams, to within the economic reach of our industrial centres and our farms."

GUN PLAY, MURDER, ROBBERY OF REGISTRY DIVISION, PLAN OF CITY HALL P. O. THIEVES

Arrest of Seven, Trapped by Inspector's Beard and Dictaphone, Clears Series of Thefts and Thwarts Gigantic Plot

A definite plan to hold up and rob in broad daylight the entire registry division of the City Hall Post Office and to commit murder, if there were resistance, had been worked out to its last detail by the seven men now under arrest for the theft of $1,477,000 of Liberty Bonds from that division last July and $40,000 more two weeks ago, according to a statement made to-day by Post Office Inspector Doran.

The plan was all ready for execution a few weeks ago, and the conspirators went to the division fully armed, ready to enter and command the employees to throw up their hands.

But it chanced that, without design, several of the Post Office special watchmen happened to be near the registry division, and the gang thought that knowledge of their plans had perhaps got to the authorities. So this attempt was abandoned and after a time of waiting another attempt was decided on.

The robbery was to have been committed to-morrow afternoon and each of the seven men and an eighth—a disguised Post Office inspector in a carefully grown beard, who had got into their confidence through posing as a yeggman and a murderer—had been studiously rehearsed in the part he was to play in the hold-up.

It was the imminence of the day for carrying the plan into effect that induced the band of inspectors, who had been informed of every detail of the plot, to round up the seven prisoners last night.

In preparing for the contemplated hold-up, the seven, accompanied by the disguised inspector, had made at least a dozen visits to the Registry Division and its approaches, studying every door, the location of every desk and of every bin or shelf in which valuable registered mail was kept.

The men at work upon the mail packages were carefully noted and those to be held up in the first moments of the entry were picked out. Orders were given that these men were to be "covered" and shot if they resisted.

It was through the plausibility of this disguised inspector, who became intimately acquainted with every member of the gang, and also through the instrumentality of a dictaphone, that the seven were arrested.

All but one of the men in custody had been or was in the employ of the Post Office. Their arrest clears up many thefts from the Registry Division in the last half year.

When the seven were confronted with stenographic transcripts of the conversations they had with the disguised inspector in a little room on the lower east side, it was said to-day that all made complete confessions of the robbery.

According to the inspectors, the chief actor in the theft was Morris Steinberg, a nineteen-year-old clerk in the Registry Division. It was he, they say, who took the pouch containing the bonds and delivered it into the hands of his associates.

The full clothing corner, E. W. Corbett, 289 Front Street, Brooklyn, was sent to the workhouse for sixty days to-day by Justices McIntyre, Voorhies and Herman, in the Court of Special Sessions, Brooklyn, whose daughter Olga, eighteen, whose beating by Majewich led to his arrest, came forward with an offer of $200 out of her savings of $229 to save him from the punishment.

The attention of the Children's Society was called to Majewich in 1918 in connection with alleged neglect of his children.
